

Season 2 Episode 8

Uncanny Premonition

Ivan is in bed where he gets visions of the other Ivan from the second Ultraverse using a high powered lacerator weapon to completely destroy people and he is about to destroy Ivan but he is rescued by two different versions of Captain Fusion from different universes. Ivan rolls in bed and he gets visions of more lacerator weapons being manufactured in a multipurpose building high above stores and offices that exist in the building. The manufactured weapons are given to genetically augmented green goopy and scaley burbies and they use the lacerators to destroy the Ultraverse monks and they use them to destroy, Ivan. Ivan jumps out of bed and his eyes have red jagged lines in them.

The sun shines brightly through one of the study hall rooms in the Ultraverse monk monastery. Safron and Dirk are at a table with Ultraverse Captain Fusion and they play a game that involves taking wooden pieces and trying to assemble a unique structure with them. Ivan enters the hall with his eyes filled with jagged red lines. Safron said, "Hi Ivan. Come play this game with us." Ivan said, "I don't feel like it." Safron said, "It is a simple and fun game once you get to learn it." Ivan said, "If you saw what I saw last night, you would not waste our precious moments playing games and we would be working towards vanquishing the greater evil." Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion give each other weird looks. Safron said, "What are you talking about?" Ivan said, "All I could see in my mind last night was that other version of me using the lacerator and me ultimately prevailing against him due to sheer dumb luck." Captain Fusion said, "You didn't win by, 'sheer dumb luck.' You defeated him because you had help from your closest allies and your training as an Ultraverse monk has really paid off." Ivan said, "You don't know all of it. The plans for the lacerator weapon were somehow leaked and now there is an evil agency that is crafting an army of burbies that will be armed with these lacerator weapons. Everything we know will cease to exist." Dirk said, "Burbies? Wasn't that some dumb kids' toy that mutated into green monsters and brought San Francisco into havoc?" Safron said, "This sounds like a bunch of crazy talk. There is no way all that could possibly exist without us knowing." Dirk said, "Yeah, and what proof do you have to back this up?" Captain Fusion said, "There was only one known lacerator that existed and it was destroyed. All the known plans for it were destroyed too. I really don't think anyone else could have stolen the plans." Ivan said, "I know this is all happening somewhere and it is going to decimate us one of these days."

Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion are in Grand Master Augi's office. Grand Master Augi said, "You come to me all the time with ridiculous predicaments and this one takes the cake. You have no evidence to back up any of this. There have never been reports of any burby lab existing." Ivan said, "Just because there are no reports of it, doesn't mean that it doesn't exist." Augi said, "Well, there is a low likelihood of any major threat like the one you speak of being able to attack the Ultraverse without us knowing." A charred monk walks into the office with smoke coming off him. Augi said, "What happened?" The monk said (while visuals are used to depict his story), "I was working at a monk recruiting station located in one of the store lots in a large multipurpose high tech building that recently opened. We were recruiting new monks when one of the recruiter monks spotted a slimy green and scaly burby armed with a weapon that we only heard of roaming around the mall. We followed the burby and it was captured by some kind of scientific worker and he brought it back to a genetic engineering lab on the top floor of the building. We went up there to examine this lab and we found they had an entire army of burbies armed with lacerators. We were spotted and they sent the burbies after us. Most of us got completely incinerated by their weapons. I barely made it out alive. I could not get any photos of the place due to the hectic battle the burbies gave us." Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion's eyes go big and their mouths are wide and closed. Safron said, "It looks like the plan you envisioned is true." The charred monk looks at Ivan and he said, "You envisioned this?" Ivan said, "I cannot take my mind off my visions I have been having which perfectly match the description you have given us." Augi said, "Since we have more concrete proof that this place exists, I am going to have to send a mission there." Augi points to the charred monk and he said, "I am not going to be sending you on this mission since you just had a traumatizing experience. I will send the four of you (points to Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion) to this building and you will make sure this operation is ended and any evidence of it ever existing is destroyed. This lacerator weapon is to be kept out of general knowledge by all means."

Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion arrive at the building that just looks like any old standard office building and it is sitting in what looks like the middle of nowhere on a grey rocky surface. They walk through the front where there are stores and kiosks everywhere. Dirk said, "Where are we going to find these burbies?" Safron said, "Ivan seems to know where they are." Ivan gives the place a stern look and he said, "I know exactly where they are."

Ivan leads, Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion to one of the upper levels where there are office units, a dentistry, and a weapons testing facility. Ivan walks in front of a door and he said, "This is the door that leads to where the burbies are. It looks just like the one in my visions." Ivan takes out his sword and he slashes the door with it and it budes a bit and it does nothing. Ivan turns to his allies and he said, "We are going to need something stronger to break it down.” Dirk preps his muscles and he said, “Let me handle this.” Dirk goes to the door and he tries smashing it down. The door only budes slightly. Captain Fusion joins Dirk and they try using their arms to take down the heavily locked door. A guard walks from behind aiming a gun at the heroes. He said, “You are not authorized to be in these sections.” Ivan said, “There are burbies with lacerators on the other side of this door. They can use the lacerators to decimate most of the Ultraverse.” The guard said, “Yeah right. You look more like an escaped mental patient judging by your choice of pajamas. It looks like you poisoned the minds of other mental patients too.” More guards show up and they place, Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion in large clamps.

The four of them are brought to a containment chamber that is coated with rubber and they are placed in front of a thick bulletproof screen where an interrogator stands on the other side with guards at his sides. The interrogator said, “It is my job to keep hostile dangers and threats out of my building. You wouldn’t like it if I brought hostile threats into your home so why would you bring them into mine?” Ivan said, “We didn’t bring any of this to you. You must know everything that goes on in this building. There are burbies armed with weapons and...” The interrogator said, “That is nothing but crazy talk. There is no way stupid kids’ toys with weapons could possibly be manufactured up there. This can end easily. Just tell me the name of the mental institute you escaped from and this can all be over.” Safron said, “He is telling the truth. We are Ultraverse monks. You can tell from our robes and our monk ID cards.” Ivan, Safron, and Dirk hold their monk ID cards up to the interrogator. The interrogator said, “I am not going to fall for something that you clearly pulled out of a cereal box. Who is this old guy? Is he one of your grandparents or something?”

Captain Fusion said, “I am Captain Fusion. I have been a member of a secret hero society in the Ultraverse for years ever since my universe was taken over by the fools that are constructing weapons of mass destruction in this very building.” The interrogator said, “You are all insane. Maybe I will give you a dose of something that will ease your...” The door behind the interrogator breaks down and burbies with lacerators jump in and they incinerate the guards in the room and the interrogator. They blast down the screen and they blast down the tight security door. Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion run out of the rubber room and they appear back in the main foyer of the building and burbies run amok and they destroy the place and they blast random people and things with their lacerators. Captain Fusion said, “We must get out of this place and report this to Augi. We may have another war on our hands.” The heroes run for the doors and a heavy metal security shielding closes over the doors making it impossible to leave the building. A voice on the intercom said, “Attention shoppers and patrons of this multipurpose establishment. There is a strong magnetic storm brewing outside. Magnetic storms are capable of destroying anything outside. Thankfully, this building is covered with a protective layer against such storms. We ask for you to remain on these premises until the storm dies down.” A storm outside sends bolts of solar and magnetic energy around the building and it strikes things on the roof. Safron said, “What do we do now?” Captain Fusion said, “The announcer is right. Magnetic storms are quite deadly. If we cannot get outside, neither can the burbies. We must destroy them in this place. I think we may have a better chance at getting past security this time around.”

The four heroes rush through the upper halls again and all the doors are broken down and burbies are running amok. They randomly blast their lacerators and they even break into weapons testing centers and they find all kinds of bizarre weapons and they use them on the heroes. Ivan and Safron slash down the burbies with swords while Dirk silly strings some of them leaving them stuck on walls and Captain Fusion punches down a few of them. Ivan looks into one of the broken doors and he sees a faint shadow of someone hiding under a counter. The four heroes enter the destroyed room and they see a scientist hiding under a counter. Ivan said, “Who are you?” The scientist is in fear and he said, “I am Dr. Leichesten of the Asterix Empire.” Ivan and Safron aim their swords at him and he raises his arms. He said, “I surrender. This operation was not my idea.” Ivan said, “How so?” Dr. Leichesten said, “The Asterix Empire recruited me to modify burby DNA so the burbies can be controlled so they would make ideal soldiers for the Asterix Empire. That idea has clearly failed and now they are destroying everything.” Safron said, “Do you know of an antidote for these, burbies?” Dr. Leichesten said, “I do.” He gets up and he shows the heroes schematics for a burby antidote. He said, “I know what is needed but I don’t have any of the components with me. I think there may be some stores in the section near the ground that may sell them. They are mostly found in cosmetic products and some medications. We can plant this substance in the environmental controls of this building. I would need to set that up and we may be able to activate some other security defenses while we are there.” Captain Fusion looks over the plans for the antidote and he said, “This strangely looks familiar. It is almost as if I did this in another life.” Captain Fusion points to Ivan and Safron and he said, “Ivan, Safron, take the list. The rest of us will try to fight off these burbies and see if we can prep the environmental controls.”

Ivan jumps on Safron’s skateboard and she skates really fast down the ground floor which used to contain stores but now they are heaps of debris. Safron skates and does tricks over the debris. Safron said, “It is just so awesome that we get to be paired together again.” Ivan said, “I guess so.” Safron stops as something catches her eye. Safron said, “Look.” Safron skates over to a travel agency where ticket vouchers are being given out for a trip to a beach resort. Safron said, “They are giving out discount vouchers for Baron Beach.” Ivan said, “What is so great about that?” Safron said, “Baron Beach is considered to be the most luxurious beach in the Ultraverse. They say it changes you. It is like a beach that has some kind of rejuvenation aura that impacts everyone that steps on the beach. They send criminals there sometimes so they can get the rehab they need. I have to take some.” Safron reaches out for one of the vouchers and burbies jump from behind the counter and they open fire on Ivan and Safron. Safron darts away on her skateboard.

Safron skates to the perfume store and Safron said, "I never liked the smell of this place. I guess the burbies hate this stuff too." Safron snatches some perfume while Ivan awkwardly hangs on to her. Safron skates to the drugstore where she snatches up the required medications. Safron skates out of the place but a bunch of burbies jump in the way and they form a barricade. Ivan takes out his sword and he slashes the burbies on the ground and the barricade collapses and Safron rolls over some of them squashing some of them.

Dr. Leichesten opens the door to the environmental control center and there is a large curved centered white cylinder with black containments in it. Dr. Leichesten brings Captain Fusion and Dirk into the control room for the environmental controls. Dr. Leichesten looks over the defense controls and he activates the launch controls. Dirk said, "Launch controls?" Captain Fusion said, "I heard of these buildings before. Some of them have the ability to launch into Ultraverse space where they can easily be relocated." Dr. Leichesten said, "As you know, there is a magnetic storm outside. The magnetic storm also serves as a weakness for the burbies and it is the reason why they are staying inside of the building. The storm may die down but if we are in the air, the burbies will still not be able to escape." The doors to the environmental control room are blasted open and burbies run in. Captain Fusion and Dirk fight off some of them and more jump in and they jump and pound on Captain Fusion and Dirk. Dirk jumps out of the crowd of burbies and he breaks the glass that rests between the control room and the cylinder and he attaches himself to the cylinder in the center of the environmental control room.

Ivan and Safron are in the hall where the environmental control room is at the end. Safron skates fast and burbies jump out of the walls and they form a multilayered wall blocking Ivan and Safron from entering the environmental control room. The burbies all jump for Ivan and Safron and they pile up on them. A yin-yang forms on Ivan and he becomes a yin-yang mech with a flaming blue sword for an arm and the other arm as an arm cannon. Ivan charges a blast and he blasts down the large platoon of burbies. Ivan runs down the hall and he cuts up most of the burbies. Safron skates behind Ivan and she is armed with the components for the antibody. Ivan and Safron enter the control room and they cut off the burbies in the room and more burbies are running up from behind. Dr. Leichesten places the components in a computer and they form into a single pill-like capsule. Dr. Leichesten throws it to Dirk and he catches it. Dr. Leichesten said, "Place the capsule into the containment field labeled as, "D4571." Dirk climbs the cylinder and he finds the containment field and he is about to put the capsule in but a burby climbs out of one of the adjacent containment fields and he scratches Dirk's hand causing him to drop the capsule. Dirk let goes and he uses his silly string to grab the capsule and send it back to him as he reels up. The burby cuts Dirk's silly string and Dirk sends out more silly strings forming a thick strong rope and Dirk climbs the rope and he punches the burby in the head smashing its gooey and slimy skull. Dirk places the capsule into the containment field.

Dr. Leichesten presses some buttons and a green gas is sent throughout the building. The burbies stop what they are doing and their eyes turn into zig-zag lines. Dr. Leichesten controls the burbies and he makes more spawn in the control room and they aim their weapons at the heroes. Safron said, "What gives?" Dr. Leichesten said, "You are all fools. You thought that you could trust someone from the Asterix Empire. I never realized how dumb you ancient monks are." Dr. Leichesten enters a secret elevator and he rides it to the roof of the building. More burbies open fire on the heroes and Ivan blocks all of them with his flaming blue arm sword. Captain Fusion spots where the hidden elevator door was and he pries it open with his arms. Captain Fusion gets the door open. Ivan grabs Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion and they jump in the shaft. Dirk fires some silly string to the top and they ride up.

They appear on the roof and it is enclosed in a glass dome containment field. Solar and magnetic bolts buzz around the dome containment. Dr. Leichesten said, "You monks are fools again. I also plotted a course for the Asterix Empire home world. We will now have an army of burbies and the 'best' monks in the order at our side. This is a major triumph. General Philip Williams will promote me for sure." Captain Fusion said, "General Philip Williams?" Dr. Leichesten said, "Yes. He is a General in the Asterix Empire that has a strong resemblance to you." Captain Fusion said, "He must be another version of me from another universe. I wonder if..." Captain Fusion thinks and he sees his universe getting invaded by Asterix Empire forces and he sees Philip Williams commanding them to take over the universe and target Captain Fusion. Captain Fusion said, "Could it be..." Burbies jump out of the shaft and they jump onto the roof. They gang up and attack the heroes. Dirk jumps and fires silly string at Dr. Leichesten. Dr. Leichesten grabs onto the line of string and he swings Dirk around. He smashes Dirk into the roof and Dirk is smashed through the floor and back into the environmental control room. Dr. Leichesten said, "I guess I also forgot to tell you that General Philip Williams selected me personally to be a test subject for a new genetic augment formula we are working on. It is working wonders for me. I am technically stronger than any of you." Captain Fusion points to Dr. Leichesten and he said, "We will see about that." Captain Fusion jumps to Dr. Leichesten and he fist fights with him. Dr. Leichesten knees Captain Fusion in the gut and he jumps and smacks Captain Fusion in the head. He grabs Captain Fusion by his cape and he swings him around and he sends Captain Fusion flying towards the glass of the dome.

Dirk is in the control room and he finds the controls for the magnetic storm protection settings. Dirk said, "Let's see how dumb he is now." The metal shielding that surrounds the building is deactivated and the dome slides down and Captain Fusion goes flying out into the abyss. Ivan yells, "Captain Fusion!" Ivan gives Dr. Leichesten an angered look. Dr. Leichesten said, "It looks like you don't have your genetically augmented friend to protect you and babysit you anymore. Is the little Ivan going to cry?" Ivan gets angered and he runs for Dr. Leichesten. Ivan gets jumps and he gets struck by a magnetic solar bolt and his yin-yang mech evolves into a stronger gold suit with a complete face protection layer. Dr. Leichesten said, "What the..." Ivan jumps down and he kicks Dr. Leichesten in the face. He smacks him with his sword and he grabs his arm and flips him backwards. Dr. Leichesten slowly gets up and he said, "I think I broke my back."

A bolt of solar energy strikes down and it hits Dr. Leichesten and his body is disintegrated and a large crack is formed in the building. The building is ripped in two and one half slowly falls away and is struck by another bolt and it disintegrates completely. The other half falls. Ivan throws himself in the air and he grabs onto Safron. Ivan spots Dirk falling and he grabs onto him too. Burbies stay contained in half of the building and they are stuck to the walls and they seem to be doing nothing. Safron spots some vouchers for Baron Beach raining out of the half of the building. Safron grabs some and she said, "Looks like we can still go to Baron Beach if we make it out of this alive."

A monk transport being flown by the charred monk from earlier flies under Ivan, Safron, and Dirk and the top hatch opens and the heroes fall in. They look at the front where they see the monk from earlier and Captain Fusion is next to him. The monk said, "Good thing I came when I did. I rescued all four of you. I am glad we took down this place." Ivan forms back into his normal self and he said, "The remaining burbies don't seem to be doing anything. It is like their controls have been destroyed and now they have no orders." The transport flies off.

Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Captain Fusion are on a beach and they sit in the sand in a bizarre looking sun over gold water. Safron said, "I just love this beach. It feels like I am a different person here. I feel like I am becoming my true inner self." Ivan said, "I guess so." Safron looks at Ivan and Captain Fusion and they give stern faces out to the sea. Safron said, "What's wrong?" Captain Fusion said, "I strangely feel like I am responsible for my universe getting invaded and the fact it is now ruled by the Asterix Empire." Safron said, "I doubt that. Those freaks are willing to take over any other universe." Captain Fusion said, "I think I am the one behind this." A ghost image of General Philip Williams appears over Captain Fusion." Safron said, "Well, we are in a place free from all of that now. I even think the burbies are enjoying it.” Safron points to where burbies are sitting in the sun and they are getting tanned and they seem friendly.
